

Robb Report

Aman Is Building Its First Private Residences in Mexico

The iconic resort makes its foray into Mexico with a collection of ultra-luxe homes.

BY ALEXANDRIA ABRAMIAN ON APRIL 25, 2018

Aman Is Building Its First Private Residences in Mexico

Aman Resorts has earned a cult-like status among A-listers and luxury travelers who are all drawn to its design-driven, ultra-private hideaways nestled everywhere from Montenegro to Sri Lanka.

With its first foray into Mexico, Aman has set its sights on a location that hits the sweet spot of being both remote and accessible. Perched on the Eastern Cape of the Baja Peninsula, only a 45-minute drive from Los Cabos International Airport, Amanvari Resort and Residences will offer a one-of-a-kind retreat for travelers looking for a dramatic beach-meets-desert setting. Neighboring the soon-to-open Four Seasons Costa Palmas, the private retreat will make an architectural statement with striking pavilions built on stilts over water.

The sprawling resort will also include ritzy residences for people looking for more than just passing access to its Robert Trent Jones II golf course, organic farms, spa, fitness pavilion, two restaurants, sweeping Sea of Cortez views, and private international marina and yacht club (a first for Aman). Twenty-four homesites will be available for residences that are expected to range from 12,000 to 20,000 square feet of indoor/outdoor living. The free-flowing, open-concept homes are designed to disappear into the surrounding landscape. Glass and wood accents create a soothing contrast with the water beyond.